an eyesore to Pocatello and a menace as well in point of extreme danger. This yards where the company does the major portion of its awitching in the making up of freight and passenger trains cast, west, morth and south. For years, or considerable size, lives and limbs have been lost here and citizens and transients subjected to delays and to cacapes faken every ordinarw precaution to protect life and limb at this danger point. Beyond the danger element, the railroad yards have divided the city against itself. There has always been a tense struggle between East and West Pocatello. It began in the early days over the postoffice and many remember when Postimaster Nate G. Franklin loaded Uncle Sam's mail sacks into an express wagon at night and armed by quiet orders from the capital of the country. "Opened shop" on the west side one bright morning in the winter of 1891. Then came the court house atruggle. Immediately following the scrap with old Bingham county to dismember it and make a county seat at Pocatello the victors fellout among themselves over the temporary location of the court house. The first commissioners to decide this important matter were John S. Baker, now of Montana: John O. Caldwell, now of California, and George W. Gorton, deceased. First they located it on the west side, in the Pioneer building, where the records of the county were opened. No sooner had an election occurred until a change was made and across the tracks went the county seat to the east side, heing located in the Phoenix block. At the close of the second erection in Baninock county the office files again took to wheels and back to the west side went the court house, the location being in the Cora block. Prior to this iast move a location was purchased by the loyal east siders and accepted by the county of company the best of relations will exist between these two previous warring elements.

With the settlement of this issue by the unanimous enactment of a city ordinate accepting the proposal of the railroad company, a great change will take place about the depot grounds of the Gate City. This is timely and only needed the agreement thus reached to begin the too long delayed transformation. The old depot at Pocatello, the old Pacific hotel and the old officers' quarters are all antiquated and do sorry injustice to the modern, un-to-date buildings in all portions of Pocatello. They stand out in sad contrast with the company's constructions in dozens and scores of other cities of less population and importance along the route of the Short Line through Idaho.

Pocatello and the railroad comany are to be jointly congratulated that this mutual agreement has passed into history. his devoted flock, who may learn of the details of the tending the hearing of this at before a quorum of his

Dr. Herewig of the Temperance Reform league of Idaho spoke in the Methodist Episcopal church of this city last Sunday. Among other compliments paid the people of the state he paid a tribute to its growth by stating that the people of Idaho knew less about the Carey act than the people of the east who are industriously reading our literature.

I am not prepared to pass judgment on the accuracy of the statement of this noted divine from a viewpoint of the knowledge of the easterners. I pause to suggest, however, that in view of the revelations of the recent revealings in Carey act lands by our Carey act land board, the people of Idaho know more of the Carey act than agrees with their respective systems and are lying awake at nights trying to forget half of what they do know.

"Noodles Fagan" makes the big noise and gets the applause. "Noodles provokes a smile as he steps before the curtain, which develops into a series of curtain, which develops into a series of uproarious laughs before he leaves the stage. His dialogue is recled off at the rate of three hundred words a minute but he is easily understood. He has a line of good jokes that penetrate, and his songs in imitation could hardly be improved upon. The classy part of "Noodles's" act is the recitation of a series of sentimental verses, entitled "Gee. It's Great to Live and Learn." Fagan uses this by special permission of the composer, Frank Fogerty of the Dublin Minstrels.

"Those Three Singing Girls," the programme should be more explicit and tell the title of a near little sketch, in which

"Rip Van Winkle," with Luke Cosgrove in the leading role, continues to make friends at the Grand. Mr. Cosgrove has extended an invitation, which has been accepted, to the sisters and pupils of St. Mary's academy to attend Saturday afternoon's performance, as his guests. Owing to the fact that many of the pupils are or have been studying this classic, the opportunity of seeing a stage presentation of it is most timely.

"Wine. Wordan and Song." which is playing at the Colonial theater, is proving to be one of the biggest hits in musical comedy ever witnessed in this city. Bonita, the star of the cast, sings a number of songs that every whistler in the city has added to his repertoire.

The box-office receipts from three performances of "St. Elmo" are to be donated to three charity organizations of the city. Tickets will be sold by handsome young women, who will make an earnest endravor to secure capacity houses for each performance. The different charity organizations which will participate in this aplendid generosity of the theatrical people are determined to show their appreciation by filling the house every evening.

VISITOR NOW ALLOWED TO SEE BROKERS BATTLE

NEW YORK, May 19.—The New York stock exchange has relaxed the severity of its rules and it is now possible for a visitor to view the operations of the brokers in the pit from the gallery above without excort. Since the panic of 1907, when members were alarmed by anarchistic threats, they have allowed no visitors unattended it is now necessary to present only a member's card to the office of the secretary, who then issues a pass. The change was made today.

INCREASE IN WAGES OF OIL TRUST'S MEN

NEW YORK May 19.—Increases in the wages of employees of the Standard Oil company, dating from May 1, will add from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 to the company's annual payroll expense. The increases range from 6 to 10 per cent. The new scale affects employees engaged in the company's refineries and factories, but does not apply to office men. Officials of the company say that the
